Public benefits

- Delivering this project will provide Penrith with a new sporting and entertainment hub for Western Sydney.
- The project is expected to support around 500 jobs (to date, 1100 people have been inducted) during construction and a further 650 jobs once operational.
- The stadium will be universally accessible, safe, and inclusive for all users, attracting more visitors to the venue.
- The venue will bring new sporting events and concerts to Penrith while continuing to support the growth of rugby league, football and rugby union in Western Sydney.
- The precinct will be accessible to the community all-year round with access to a landscaped forecourt, including basketball hoops and a playing field.
- The stadium is expected to be ready for operations in 2027 and will be known as Helloworld Stadium.
